Dr. Nick Brossoit Has Passed Away

It is with deep sadness that we are sharing that Former Edmonds School District Superintendent Dr. Nick Brossoit passed away on Saturday, April 2nd. He was battling pancreatic cancer.

Dr. Brossoit was a thoughtful and kind hearted man with a strong faith. He cared deeply about the people in his life, particularly the coaches and teachers who took him under their wing and helped him stay away from trouble as a youth. The profound effect of these individuals led Dr. Brossoit into a lifetime of education and service and he spent much of his time dedicated to the students and families he came into contact with. With great integrity, Dr. Brossoit cared for and loved everyone around him.

He began his career as a teacher and coach in the Franklin Pierce and Peninsula School Districts, and then served as Assistant Principal, Director of Special Programs, and Assistant Superintendent in the Burlington-Edison School District before becoming Superintendent in the Edmonds School District from 2004 - 2016.

Throughout his career, Dr. Brossoit took a holistic approach to giving our children the best opportunities for their personal, academic, and creative success. This included passing successful bond and levy campaigns, increasing Washington State's education budget allocations through legislation, aligning curriculum to achieve state learning goals, developing a system to remediate reading, writing and arithmetic skills for students, and training staff in modern methods of assessing and teaching skills. Many students have also benefitted from the Dr. Nick Brossoit post secondary scholarship.

Our thoughts are with Dr. Brossoit's family and friends during this difficult time.
